Smith, premier of British Columbia, is dead. Macdowell, M. P. for Saskatchewan, has arrived in Ottawa.

Serious snow blockades prevail in many parts of eastern Canada.

Tennyson has written a jubilee ode which has been very generally ridiculed.

It is said that 160 miles of the North-West Central road will be built this year.

The United States interstate commerce bill comes into force on April 1st. It puts an end to the pass system and to differential rates.

The Mounted police authorities are making arrangements for the usual recruiting to fill the vacancies created by the retirement of men who have served their term. About one hundred are required.

Already application has been filed for seven bills of divorce, which the senate will have to decide. One is of Emily Riddell from George Herchmer, M.D., of the North-West territories, for desertion and adultery.

A cable to the Globe says that the Manchester Guardian yesterday published a report that Sir John A. Macdonald will be raised to the peerage and appointed governor-general of Canada, to succeed Lord Lansdowne.

Laird, the defeated candidate in Saskatchewan, is here. He ascribes his defeat to the police vote, which, he says, was as large as Macdowell's majority, and to the large number of claims now being pressed against the government.

The coercion bill which has been introduced into the imperial parliament provides among other things for dispensing with trial by jury in certain cases, and for trials of others in England. The Parnellites are giving a bitter opposition.

In connection with the supreme court of the North West the following appointments have been made: Regina judicial district—J. H. Benson, sheriff; Dixie Watson, clerk of court. Whitewood district—Peter Kenny, sheriff; Oliver Neff, clerk of court.

The department of interior is completing arrangements for a geological and topographical expedition to the Yukon country. The expedition will be under the charge of Dr. Dawson and Wm. Ogilvie, D.L.S., and will leave Victoria, B. C., early in April.

The Manitoba legislature meets on April 14th. There are still a good many rumors as to a combination to defeat the government, organized by C. F. Brown, late member of the cabinet, but the precise condition of matters will probably not be known until the meeting of the legislature.

The agitation against the disallowance of provincial railways still continues in Manitoba. The government has disallowed the road leading from Brandon southwest in the adjoined territory, and therefore contrary to the provisions of the C. P. R. charter. No importance is attached to the matter as it is generally believed that the policy will not be persisted in further as regards the old province of Manitoba.

The new extradition treaty between Great Britain and the United States is published. Among the offences added to the extraditable list are the following: Manslaughter, burglary, embezzlement of the value of $50 and upwards, larceny of the value of $10 and upwards, malicious injury to property whereby the life of any person is endangered, if such injury constitute a crime according to the laws of both the high contracting parties, or according to the laws of that political division of either country in which the offender may be arrested.

Snow deep and unabating. The first ducks of the season were seen today.

A party of Indians who have been hunting in this vicinity since last fall have plenty of furs, but are out of flour and meat. They are stuck now by impassable roads, but expect to leave for Calgary or Battleford in a few days and to rustle game on the way.

CALGARY, March 30, 1887.

The official declaration of the returning officer in the Alberta election gives Davis 1,037 votes, Hardisty 783, Lafferty 235. Majority for Davis over Hardisty 254, over Lafferty 802, over Hardisty and Lafferty together 10.

BALL last night in the big hotel, small attendance, but first class music.

A LARGE amount of H. B. freight was shipped to the Landing on Monday.

REV. PERE REMAS, of St. Albert, left for Battle river by Thursday's stage.

THE Almanac says that spring began on March 20th at 5 p.m. The almanac lies.

TONE BROS. of 53 22 have purchased a span of Clydesdale mares from J. Pollock for $500.

THE Calgary Tribune mentions that A. Taylor, of Edmonton, went east on March 14th.

R. DENNISON returned from a trip to Ottawa on Monday's stage accompanied by his brother.

FIVE cents a pound was offered last week by the H. B. Co. for freight from Calgary to the Landing.

THE Ontario papers complain that winter lingers in the lap of spring in that gentle climate. Same here.

THE ice was still in the Bow and Red Deer when the last stage came in, but was getting shaky in the former.

MALONEY BROS., of St. Albert, have sold their percheron stallion to Taylor Bros., of Sturgeon settlement.

W. MALONEY and D. McLeod left for Calgary on Sunday. The former goes to Ontario to purchase brood mares.

DURING the season of 1886 the H. B. Co. expended $3,000 in improving the road from Edmonton to the Athabasca Landing.

EDMONTON school tax rate has been struck at 4 mills on the dollar which will raise $1,500 for the current year. The rate last year was eight mills.

A CABLE to the Globe says that the late H. B. Co. fur sales in London show a decline in prices owing to the small demand from Russian buyers.

CONSTABLE T. P. CARNEY, of Fort Saskatchewan, lost a cow this week by drowning through a hole in the ice of a lake near W. Walker's place.

J. F. SMITH has the contract of delivering 100 bushels of barley and 300 bushels of potatoes to the Indian department at Battleford by May 12th.

CONSTABLES Edward Cullen, David Scott, Thos. Lamaway and Glassford will leave G. division of the police on the 12th inst., having served their five years' term.

FRASER & CO. sent two additional men to the landing on Thursday, to assist in erecting a warehouse for the H. B. Co., 30x40, at the Grand Rapids of the Athabasca.

A REPORT from Wood Mountain, dated March 19th, says that the snow is all gone and cattle on the ranches are in good condition. The losses prove to be much below first estimates. Flocks of wild geese were then passing northward.

FRESH roll butter is in the market at 50c. No native tub butter. Manitoba factory tub at 40c by the pound, and 35c by the tub. Fresh eggs fairly plentiful at 40c a doz. Beef is up to 13c by the carcass and scarce. Fresh pork 12c and plentiful. Potatoes 50c a bushel and plentiful.

THE Indians of the Battle river agency are reported to be in good heart and preparing for a faithful spring work. The Stoney band lost about 30 members by measles and whooping cough last winter, but all are free from disease now. The bands generally are increasing in numbers, the births exceeding the deaths.

THE Calgary Tribune asks that the charter granted some years ago for a railroad to run north from Crowfoot, 70 miles east of Calgary, be not renewed. As the charter was only a speculative one, the request is right enough. But it follows this up with a demand "That no charter be granted in Alberta except for a road running directly north and south from Calgary." The Tribune seems to think that Alberta is a park on one of Calgary's back streets.

THE Indians of Ermine Skin's band at Bear's hills were greatly exercised lately over some supposed practices of witchcraft among them by an old woman, a member of the band. She was reported to be "making medicine," and had several members of the band under the influence of her enchantments. The belief in witchcraft, although decreasing, is still strong among the Indians and is hard to overcome.

THE Montreal Trade Bulletin of March 15th says that the March sales of fur in London are likely to have the effect of stiffening prices. Otter has advanced on and fox declined from last March prices. Montreal prices are: Beaver, per lb., $3.50 to $4; bear, per skin, $10 to $15; otter, $9 to $11; mink, $1 to $1.25; martin, 90c to $1; fisher, $5 to $6; lynx, $3 to $4; skunk, 40c, 60c, 80c; muskrat, 10c to 12c; fox, red, $1 to $1.25; fox, cross, $2.

A PRIVATE telegram gives the following comparison between the fur prices realized at the March fur sales in London, England, and those realized at the same sales the previous year: Fisher, 5 per cent; silver fox, 10 per cent; lynx, 45 per cent; skunk, 20 per cent; mink, 5 per cent; and martin, 15 per cent lower than last March. Beaver 10 per cent lower than last January. Cross fox, same as last March. Red fox, 10 per cent; white fox, 60 per cent; wolverine, 15 per cent; otter, 5 per cent; black bear, 5 per cent; brown bear, 10 per cent higher than last March. Lynx is a drug at any price. Bears and all kinds of foxes promise to be good.

W. LATIMER's house in rear of Little Mountain was burned to the ground on Wednesday. The fire started from a defect in the chimney. Mrs. Latimer, who was alone, did all she could to stop the fire but was unsuccessful. By the time it became apparent that she could not control it some rifle cartridges, which were in the house, began to go off and she had to abandon her efforts to save the moveables which were all burned. W. H. Carson, who was living with Mr. Latimer, lost considerable clothing. Messrs. Latimer and Carson were on the way to the landing with H. B. freight, having left on Monday. Mrs. Latimer is stopping with her brother-in-law, T. G. Hutchings.

THE Maritime Bank of St. John, N. B., has suspended payment. Also the private banking firm of McLellan & Co. of the same place.

THE MacLeod Gazette mentions the case of a stockman at High river who has lost 50 per cent of his herd this winter. He had two head.

THE volunteers who were under fire in the Saskatchewan campaign of 1885 are to receive clasps in addition to their medals with the word "Saskatchewan" engraved on them.

A VIOLINCELLO, for the string band that is beginning to be organized here, arrived by last stage. It made its first appearance at the ball on April 1st and was voted a grand success.

THE Calgary Tribune complains that the C. P. R. has raised its rates on lumber from Beaver, British Columbia, to Calgary from $6 per M. to $14 per M., and on fencing in proportion. These rates should induce all sane men to settle in a country where they do not have to depend upon a railway for their building or fencing timber—to wit, Northern Alberta.

THE Globe denies that Mr. Blake is about to retire from the leadership of the liberal party. It does not deny that he has issued a circular tendering his resignation, but says that it is the custom of the liberals at the beginning of each new parliament to choose their leader, and that therefore Mr. Blake is merely conforming to custom. It does not hint at the possibility of any one succeeding him.

JURORS' FEES.

The tariff of fees to be paid for services in connection with criminal and civil trials in the North-West as fixed by a late order in council are anything but satisfactory in some particulars. No doubt the appointees of the government—the crown prosecutors, sheriffs and clerks of courts—are well looked after, and if they are not it is not a matter of much public concern. The government which appointed them may pay them as it pleases or as may be mutually agreed upon, without the public troubling itself about the matter. But the fees allowed the members of the public who are compelled to take part in criminal cases as witnesses, jurors or interpreters, are so low as to either deter men from acting when they can avoid doing so, or do them a gross injustice when they are compelled to act. Of course it is not to be expected that witnesses or jurors shall make as fat a thing out of their attendance as officials of the court, but they are at least entitled to reasons able protection against actual loss on account of their duties to the crown—or really the general public. A witness or juror is allowed 10c a mile travelling expenses, when off the railroad. To show that this is not sufficient, it is only necessary to mention that the same order-in-council allows 15c a mile to sheriffs and coroners, under similar circumstances, while by rail all parties are allowed only the actual fare paid. If 15c a mile is approximately the actual cost of travelling by road to a sheriff, 10c a mile must be below the approximate actual cost of such travelling to a juror or witness. There is nothing to show that it naturally costs more for a sheriff to travel than for a witness, nor that he is entitled to more as being a person of more consequence either regarding the trial or personally. Either the sheriff receives too much—which he does not—or the juror receives too little—which is the fact. As indemnity the juror or witness receives $1 a day, out of which, as far as the order-in-council shows, he must pay his board. Board is worth in the territories from 75c to $2 a day, the ordinary hotel rate being $1.50 a day, which leaves the unfortunate witness or juror 50c a day out, besides his time. If board is paid, the juror or witness receives laborer's wages, which if he is a tradesman or in any position other than a gentleman of leisure means a loss to him. In the North-West witnesses frequently have to be brought long distances, and a loss on a long mileage and on time for many days is such a serious affair that an ordinary individual would often, for his own sake, rather hold his tongue about his knowledge of the circumstances of a crime than suffer such injustice to himself in order to have the criminal punished. Interpreters get $2 a day for the days actually engaged. Unless an interpreter is good he is no good, and if his services are not worth more than $2 a day they are not worth anything. Interpreters are not compelled to act as witnesses or jurors. If it is necessary to the due administration of justice that an interpreter should be employed, it is necessary that he should be able to interpret properly, and when sufficient inducement is not offered to secure the necessary ability the interests of justice must suffer in proportion. It may be argued that as the fees paid witnesses, etc., come partly from their own pockets, and as the services they render are aside from their ordinary avocations, and are to some extent to themselves as members of society—that in fact, in attending court, they are working for themselves—they have no right to more than nominal compensation, and that there would be no advantage in increasing the amount. It is true that estimating the population of Canada at five millions, each witness does have to pay the five millionth part of his own fees, that he does derive a five millionth part of the total benefit to the country arising from the trial of the case, and that therefore he should stand the five millionth part of the loss entailed upon himself by his duties as witness, or juror—but no more. If the crown—or the public—requires the services of any individual, whether as a witness, juror or interpreter it should grant him, if not full, at least reasonable compensation. It should not ask one man in a community to suffer all the loss that is incurred for the benefit of all. But aside from this view of the question the lowness of the fees instanced really tends greatly to defeat that justice, to secure which the whole machinery of the supreme court is supposed to have been created.

The news appearing in last week's telegrams that Sir John is about to retire from the leadership of the conservative party, to become governor-general, is something of a chestnut. It has been repeated so often, without being denied once, that it is very likely to be true. That Blake is likely to retire from the leadership of the opposition, however, is news indeed. Having been with all his indecision, almost endorsed at the polls in the late election, with the strong probability of complications favorable to him arising at any time during the existence of the newly elected parliament, it seems strange that he should, after waiting so long, have chosen the present occasion for retiring from the honorable position he has so long occupied. There are no indications that his followers desire a change of leaders, for although he has not been successful and is not perfect, it is by no means apparent that any other member of the party could have done better or nearly as well. Whatever the cause, it is from within himself. It may be that he does not really intend to retire, and is merely fishing for a stronger endorsement as leader, to give him renewed strength for a further struggle. It may be too that he intends to retire on account of ill health, or from disgust with Canadian politics, and with the unappreciative Canadian public. But none of these reasons seem likely. What better endorsement could an opposition leader want that to be returned in two constituencies, and to reduce the government majority by more than half. Although not strong physically, he is in the prime of life, he is not broken down by dissipation or disease, and is in as good position to fight the country's battles as he ever was. It cannot be that he is disgusted with politics, for certainly they are no worse now than ever, and although he has not been made premier he is certainly, next to the premier, the most universally honored, respected and believed in of any of Canada's politicians. It is not likely that such a man at such a time is going to crawl into his shell and stay there. It is more likely that he fully appreciates his weight in Canadian public life, that he has arrived at a stage at which he cannot be ignored, and that he is fitting himself to take the leadership of the coalition government that will probably have to be formed when Sir John steps up and out. It is generally conceded that Sir John is the keystone of the conservative arch which upholds the present administration; that when he is withdrawn the arch must fall. There is no man in the party who would really be acceptable to the people of Canada as leader of the government. What is more natural than that the better elements of the conservative party should rally around Blake, who is sufficiently conservative in his liberalism, and who retaining the more conservative elements of the present liberal party would be able to form a stronger government than any other man in public life to-day?

In an issue, just before the election, the Lethbridge News published a list of eleven reasons why the electors of that burgh should support Mr. Davis. No. 8 read: "Because the Galt railway will be extended sooner with Mr. Davis in the house of commons supporting it, as his interests and those of southern Alberta demand." As Mr. Davis did not, in his electoral address or at any other time during the campaign, state publicly that he would support the extension of the Galt railway to the boundary, or in other words the doing away with the monopoly clause of the C. P. R. charter, it is unfair to him to assert that he will do what he most carefully refrained from promising to do. So that after the election over, when the Ottawa government publicly announces through a communication to the Brandon city council that the monopoly clause will remain in force, contrary to the interests of Southern Alberta in general and Lethbridge in particular, Mr. Davis is not to be blamed. He was supported as a supporter of the monopoly policy, unanimously by the people of Lethbridge, against a candidate who, it has been freely alleged, was of the same political leaning, but who, in his address and throughout the campaign, declared distinctly in favor of the breaking of the monopoly. The people of Lethbridge and of Southern Alberta generally having by their votes, when the choice was offered them, endorsed monopoly instead of voting against it, the government cannot be blamed for reconsidering the determination at which they had apparently almost arrived of doing away with the obnoxious provision, and deciding to continue it in full force. Why should the government quarrel with the C. P. R. Co. in order to thrust benefits upon the people of Southern Alberta when they declare distinctly that they are well satisfied without them. Already throughout Canada the result of the North-West elections is being proclaimed as a full endorsement of the government's policy, disallowance and all, and in the face of the facts what can Mr. Davis, or any other North-West members, do in the house to remove that grievance. The first answer to his first move would be "The people have endorsed the policy or you would not be here; as long as they are satisfied you had better be." Mr. Davis can't, as an honorable man, go back on the party which elected him, and whom, before he entered the contest, he pledged himself to support in all things. The vote of March 15th has stuck railway monopoly firmly on the North-West for the life of the present parliament, and the men who worked so hard to elect the government candidates are to blame more than the government itself. They chose monopoly and it would be cruel to deprive them of it.

REVISED STATUTES.

Copies of the revised statutes of Canada have arrived here. They cover some 2,500 pages making two bulky volumes. They are well printed, well bound, well indexed and are invaluable for information and reference. They put the idea of what the law is intended to be within the reach of all. The act providing for the revision states that it has been found expedient to revise, classify and consolidate the public general statutes passed by the parliament of Canada from the time of confederation to the end of the session of '86, and also certain public general statutes which were passed by the several legislatures of the provinces of Canada before they respectively became part thereof, and which are still in force, and relate to matters within the legislative authority of the parliament of Canada. The two published volumes are the result, and the enactments contained came into force on the 1st of March last. The revised statutes are not to be held to operate as new laws, but to be construed and have effect as a consolidation and as declaratory of the law as contained in the acts for which they are substituted. Where the revised statutes differ from the repealed enactments, as respects all transactions, matters and things subsequent to the 1st of March, 1887, they prevail; but as respects all transactions, matters and things anterior to that time, the repealed enactments prevail. The revised statutes can be procured from the Queen's printer, Ottawa, at $2.50 per volume.

The Ottawa Journal says: "A number of farmers from the surrounding districts are making arrangements to take up farms in Dakota. Mr. A. H. Taylor, the local ticket agent for the Grand Trunk railroad, is making arrangements for the passage of some of these from the districts in the immediate vicinity of the city. Thirteen of these leave tomorrow morning by the Canada Atlantic for different parts of Dakota and the remainder will follow in a few days. About 8 car loads of live stock and household effects will be also despatched by the party. The emigrating families come from Stittville, Manitick, Eastman's Springs, Renfrew and other places."

EDMONTON PRICES.

The Winnipeg Commercial of a late issue devotes a page of editorial to a condemnation of "cutting prices," and strange to say takes as its text an assertion regarding Edmonton, Alberta, "that the trade of that place has been entirely ruined through a promiscuous system of cutting prices, engaged in by local dealers." Whatever the object may have been the result would naturally be that in so far as the article of the Commercial gains credence, the standing of the merchants of this place is lowered. Of course they are not likely to suffer any great material injury, for, in the first place, they buy chiefly in Montreal, not in Winnipeg, in the next place they buy chiefly for cash, and in the third place they do not attempt to do a speculative business or "cut prices" as the Commercial takes for granted—they're not built that way. When the Ethiopian and the leopard have changed the hue of their respective cuticles, the Edmonton merchant will begin to "cut prices," not before. Of course prices are much lower than they ever were up to five years ago. Up to that time the rate of freight from Winnipeg was 9c to 10c a pound, an outfit could only be procured once a year, and only small outfits were brought. At present freight through from Montreal averages 4c a pound. Montreal is a cheaper market than Winnipeg, wholesale prices are lower than formerly, stocks can be renewed at any time of year and as frequently as desired, and the country has developed so that larger outfits can be brought in. It would be strange indeed if prices had not lowered here under these circumstances, and indeed they are now down to about Winnipeg prices of six years ago, but their having lowered is no evidence of their having been ruinously cut. The best way to judge whether they have been cut or not is to compare them with those of other places, Calgary for instance. In every respect Edmonton merchants are on an equal footing with those of Calgary, except that they have to pay from 2c to 3c a pound extra freight. If they get Calgary prices, with the extra freight added, they are doing as well as the Calgary merchants; and these are the prices that rule at Edmonton. In apology for not making higher prices it may be remarked that if this was done Edmonton would lose the trade, which would go direct to Calgary. The Edmonton merchants have no interest to serve in cutting prices. They are all well established, are doing business on their own money and have plenty of it, and if there is one place in the country more than another, where a good reliable article can always be secured at a good robust—though not extortionate—price, that place is Edmonton.

L. A. SENECA, S. E. St. O. Chapleau, C. A. M. Globensky, J. M. Dufresne and J. B. A. Mongenais have been incorporated as "La Compagnie du Ranche Franco-Canadien (limited)" with a capital of $100,000, to acquire lands for cultivation, pasture and mining purposes.
